FOREWORD

For several decades now, Canadian authors have been receiving literary awards. These prizes aim at encouraging and honoring our writers. In view of this fact, Statistics Canada considered it important to preserve the names of those persons and the titles of their works which won them such honors. This is the purpose of this publication.

Other than naming the prize-winners and presenting certain information about their prizes, we have tried to describe them as accurately as possible. We are well aware that omissions, even errors may be contained in the first edition of this report.

Except for a very few cases, information was obtained from persons granting these prizes; we gratefully acknowledge their contribution and would appreciate their informing us of all possible changes. We would also gladly welcome any comment to improve the next edition.

Several persons contributed to this publication, and we would like to thank them for their work. They are: Mr. Roch Bacon, Chief, Fine Arts and Mass Media Section, Dr. Guy Picard, Mrs. Marie Dupéré, Miss Mary Sue Devereaux, and Mr. Michael McKenna.

Y. Fortin,
Director,
Education, Science and Culture Division.

AVANT-PROPOS

Depuis plusieurs décennies on offre aux auteurs canadiens des prix dits littéraires. Ceux-ci veulent être pour nos écrivains à la fois un encouragement et un honneur. Dans cette optique, Statistique Canada a cru important de préserver les noms de ceux qui furent ainsi honorés, de même que le titre des oeuvres pour lesquelles ils le furent. C'est le but de ce document.

En plus d'indiquer les lauréats et de fournir certaines statistiques au sujet de ces prix, nous avons tenté de les décrire le plus fidèlement possible. Nous sommes fort conscients que des omissions, voire quelques erreurs, ont pu se glisser dans la première édition de cette publication.

À très peu d'exceptions près, l'information nous a été fournie par les responsables des prix; nous leur en savons gré et les prions de bien vouloir nous signaler les modifications possibles. Qu'on veuille bien aussi nous transmettre tout commentaire susceptible de nous aider à améliorer la prochaine édition.

Cette publication paraît aujourd'hui grâce à la collaboration de plusieurs personnes dont M. Roch Bacon, chef de la Section des beaux-arts et des mass media, Dr. Guy Picard, Mme Marie Dupéré, Mlle Mary Sue Devereaux et M. Michael McKenna. Nous les en remercions.

Directeur,
Division de l'éducation, des sciences
et de la culture,
Y. Fortin.

PRESENTATION

This is a summary of the literary and journalistic awards given to Canadian authors over the past 51 years. We are publishing a list of the prizes, the winners and their works.¹

Background

As early as the end of the nineteenth century, prizes for poetry, the novel and the short story were awarded occasionally, generally by publishing houses or newspapers. The first annual award (established by the Province of Quebec and later known as the Concours littéraires du Québec (Quebec Literary Competitions)) appeared in 1923. The same year, the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire created awards for the short story and one-act play. In the twenties, the Royal Society of Canada began to award medals as literary prizes. Around 1945, there were prizes for the novel, the short story, poetry, drama, research and journalism; these were in the form of medals, trophies, citations or cash.

Some of these prizes no longer exist, and some new ones have been created. On the whole, the number of prizes has increased. They now cover almost all literary genres: poetry, the novel, the short story, humour, drama, history, biography, books for young people and journalism.

In terms of the number of prizes awarded, Canada is now comparable to Great Britain, Austria and Switzerland. However, other countries award many more: Italy and West Germany have around 100 prizes; while the United States has some 400 and France approximately 500. Unfortunately we have no data with which to compare the value of the prizes in the various countries.

The prizes are awarded by various bodies, sometimes acting individually and sometimes with other groups: the federal government, provincial and municipal administrations, associations of writers, librarians and artists, publishing houses, journals, newspapers, universities, theatre groups and industrial and commercial firms, as well as other associations or individuals interested to some extent in literature.

¹ A few years ago, the Canadian Cultural Information Centre (now defunct) published a booklet entitled: Canadian Literary Awards, Part One: Governor General's Literary Awards, Ottawa, 1966. The second part of the booklet, which was supposed to deal with "other literary awards of national importance", was never published.

PRÉSENTATION

Nous recensons ici les prix annuels de littérature et de journalisme qui ont été offerts aux auteurs canadiens au cours des 51 dernières années. Nous publions la liste de ces prix ainsi que celle des lauréats et des oeuvres couronnées¹.

Historique

Dès la fin du XIX^e siècle, des prix ayant pour objet la poésie, le roman et la nouvelle, étaient occasionnellement offerts, le plus souvent par des maisons d'édition ou par des journaux. Le premier prix annuel (institué par la Province de Québec et connu plus tard sous le nom de Concours littéraires du Québec) fit son apparition en 1923. La même année, l'Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire créait des prix pour la nouvelle et les pièces en un acte. Au cours des années 20, la Société royale du Canada commença, de son côté, à décerner des médailles comme prix de littérature. Vers 1945, le roman, la nouvelle, la poésie, le théâtre, la recherche et le journalisme étaient l'objet de prix annuels, présentés sous forme de médailles, de trophées, de mentions ou de sommes d'argent.

Depuis lors, certains prix ont cessé d'exister; d'autres ont fait leur apparition. Dans l'ensemble, le nombre des prix s'est accru. Ils touchent aujourd'hui à peu près tous les genres littéraires: la poésie, le roman, la nouvelle, le genre comique, le théâtre, l'histoire, la biographie, la littérature pour la jeunesse et le journalisme.

Quant au nombre de ses prix, le Canada se compare actuellement à la Grande-Bretagne, à l'Autriche et à la Suisse. D'autres pays, cependant, en ont beaucoup plus: l'Italie et l'Allemagne de l'Ouest en comptent 100; les États-Unis, environ 400; et la France, environ 500. Nous n'avons malheureusement aucune donnée qui nous permette de comparer la valeur des prix de ces différents pays.

Les prix proviennent de diverses sources, agissant seules ou en collaboration les unes avec les autres: l'État fédéral, les administrations provinciales et municipales, les associations d'écrivains, de bibliothécaires, d'artistes, les maisons d'édition, les revues, les journaux, les universités, les troupes de théâtre, les sociétés industrielles et commerciales, ainsi que d'autres associations ou individus intéressés de près ou de loin à la chose littéraire.

The Prizes Included in this Survey

Certain criteria had to be established to define the area under study. The criteria can be broken down into four categories: frequency of award, subject matter, nature of the award, and the rules governing the eligibility of candidates.

With respect to frequency, only annual awards have been included. Prizes awarded on an occasional basis have therefore been omitted. Moreover, all current annual awards have been recorded, even those created very recently. Of the prizes that are now defunct, only those that were awarded for at least five years have been considered.

In the area of subject matter, our statistics deal with prizes for literature and journalism. We have therefore eliminated those which, while not completely outside the literary realm, are primarily awarded for other activities. However, when the prizes have special categories for literature, the latter have been included (Theatre Canada's drama festival prize and the prize of the Association of Canadian Television and Radio Artists, for example). On the other hand, non-literary categories of prizes which are largely literary in nature have been eliminated (the Photography section of the National Newspaper Awards, for example), except where their omission would have been detrimental to the content of the text (as is the case for the National Press Club of Canada awards and those of the Canadian Journalism Hall of Fame). In addition, the prizes had to be for completed works, either published or unpublished, in order to be included. Bursaries and grants designed to aid writers to undertake or finish a work have therefore been excluded.

With respect to the nature of the awards, we have recorded only the names of those winners who received material recognition: cash, medals, trophies, and so on; those who simply received citations have been omitted so as not to make the text unduly long.

As for eligibility, our first criterion was that the prizes be awarded to individuals. That is, those given to periodicals, with no mention of the author, do not appear on our list.

In addition, the winners must be adults, not children or adolescents. Nevertheless, we have included the Prix de l'Actuelle-Jeunesse, the Prix Marie-Claire Daveluy, and the youth category of the Alberta Poetry Contest, because although they are not for adults, these awards are national in scope and the winning works are automatically published.

Prizes restricted to members of an organization or to students of an institution have also been excluded. Two exceptions have been made to this rule,

Les prix recensés

Un certain nombre de critères ont dû être établis pour délimiter l'univers recensé. Ces critères peuvent être répartis en quatre catégories selon qu'on considère l'élément temps, l'objet du prix, la nature du don, enfin les règles qui gouvernent l'éligibilité des candidats.

Du côté temps, seuls les prix annuels ont été retenus. Ceux qui ont été offerts à titre occasionnel ont donc été omis. De plus, tous les prix annuels qui existent actuellement sont recensés, même s'ils sont de dates très récentes. Quant aux prix aujourd'hui disparus, nous ne les avons retenus que s'ils ont été attribués pendant au moins cinq ans.

Du côté de l'objet, nous recensons les prix de littérature et les prix de journalisme. Nous avons donc éliminé ceux qui, tout en n'excluant pas complètement la littérature, s'adressent surtout à d'autres activités. Cependant, quand ces prix ont des catégories spéciales pour la littérature, celles-ci ont été retenues (Prix du Festival d'art dramatique Théâtre Canada, Prix de l'Association canadienne des artistes de la radio et de la télévision). Par contre, les catégories non littéraires des prix à caractère principalement littéraire ont été éliminées (par exemple, la section Photographie des National Newspaper Awards), sauf quand leur omission aurait nui au contenu du texte (comme c'est le cas pour les prix du National Press Club of Canada, et du Temple de la Renommée du Journalisme canadien). De plus, les prix recensés doivent être décernés pour des oeuvres terminées, publiées ou inédites. Les bourses et les subventions qui ont pour but d'aider les écrivains à entreprendre ou à compléter une oeuvre ont donc été omises.

Du côté de la nature des dons, nous ne rapportons que les noms des lauréats qui ont bénéficié de gratifications matérielles: argent, médailles, trophées... En d'autres termes, nous avons omis les simples mentions pour ne pas prolonger indûment le texte.

Du côté de l'éligibilité des candidats, les prix doivent, premièrement, être destinés à des personnes. C'est dire que ceux qui sont attribués à des périodiques sans faire mention des auteurs, n'apparaissent pas sur nos listes.

Deuxièmement, les lauréats doivent être des adultes et non des enfants ou des adolescents. Cependant, nous avons retenu le Prix de l'Actuelle-Jeunesse, le Prix Marie-Claire Daveluy et la catégorie juvénile de l'Alberta Poetry Contest, parce que ces prix, bien que ne s'adressant pas à des adultes, ont une envergure nationale et parce que les oeuvres couronnées sont automatiquement publiées.

Troisièmement, les prix restreints aux membres d'une organisation ou aux étudiants d'une institution n'ont pas été admis. Toutefois, nous avons fait deux however: the Kenneth R. Wilson Prize and the Prix de poésie de la Société des Poètes canadiens-français, because these awards are national in scope.

The municipality is the smallest geographic unit considered in our statistics. Our study therefore includes municipal, regional, provincial, national and even international awards. The only international awards included, however, are those to which a public or private Canadian body contributes.

Sources of Information

The information was found in literary and journalistic periodicals and in the media in general. Where possible, we contacted the organizations responsible for awarding the prize; we would like to take this opportunity to thank them for their cooperation. It is possible that we may have overlooked some important prizes. If this has happened, we would ask our readers to accept our apologies and to notify us of the omissions.

Despite our efforts, we were unable to establish statistics on 18 awards, because it was impossible to compile the necessary information. They can be broken down as follows:

	Literary awards	Journalistic awards	Total
Existing	2	3	5
Defunct	10	3	13
Total	12	6	18

exceptions à cette règle, le Prix Kenneth R. Wilson et le Prix de poésie de la Société des Poètes canadiens-français, parce que ces prix ont une envergure nationale.

Quatrièmement, quant au territoire embrassé, la municipalité est la plus petite unité géographique retenue. Nous avons donc recensé des prix municipaux, régionaux, provinciaux, nationaux et même internationaux. Cependant les seuls prix internationaux admis sont ceux auxquels contribue un organisme canadien, public ou privé.

Sources de l'information

Les renseignements ont été puisés dans les revues de littérature et de journalisme ainsi que dans la grande presse. Quant la chose a été possible, nous avons pris contact avec les organismes responsables. Nous les remercions de leur collaboration. Il se peut que des prix importants aient échappé à notre attention. Si la chose s'est produite, nous nous en excusons auprès de nos lecteurs et nous les prions de nous signaler les omissions et les lacunes.

Malgré nos efforts, 18 prix n'ont pu être recensés parce qu'il nous a été impossible de recueillir l'information nécessaire. Ils se répartissent comme suit:

	Prix littéraires	Prix de journalisme	Total
Actuels	2	3	5
Disparus	10	3	13
Total	12	6	18

PART I

LITERARY AWARDS

PARTIE I

LES PRIX DE LITTÉRATURE

A. INTRODUCTION

At present we have a list of 81 literary awards, but we were able to establish statistics on only 69 of them. There are therefore twelve awards for which we could not compile the data necessary to include them in this publication. Of these awards, all are now defunct, with the exception of the Prix Michèle Lenormand and the Edmonton Journal Literary Awards Competition. The following is a list of these 12 awards:

- British Columbia Community Theatre Contest
- Calgary Branch of the Canadian Authors' Association Poetry Competition
- Canadian Film Awards (Screenplay category)
- Canadian Literature Club Competition
- Canadian Poetry Calendar Contest
- Edmonton Journal Literary Awards Competition
- Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire Assiniboine Chapter Poetry Contest
- Macnab Historical Association Poetry Contest
- Le Prix Michèle Lenormand
- Montreal Branch of the Canadian Authors' Association One-act Play Competition
- Vancouver Community Arts Council One-act Play Competition
- Women's Canadian Club of Toronto Literary Contest

Language of the Awards

The 69 literary awards included here are open to Francophones, Anglophones or both.

We used the following rule in determining the language of the prizes: a prize is bilingual if, in the last few years at least, the number of winners who speak the majority language does not exceed 80% of the total. Table 1 gives a breakdown by language of the distribution of prizes. The stability of the French awards is noteworthy, 94% of the original awards are still in existence, in comparison with 82% for the bilingual awards and 73% for the English awards.

Existing Awards

The first literary awards were established in 1923. Of those still in existence, the oldest is the Lorne Pierce Medal, given by the Royal Society of Canada, which was first awarded in 1926. Table 2 indicates when the 50 existing prizes were first offered.

Table 3 gives a breakdown of prizes by type of literature, and Table 4 shows the various categories of sponsor of the awards. We shall examine these breakdowns more closely when we look at the cash value of the awards.

The competitions set certain restrictions as to the eligibility of candidates. These restrictions may pertain to nationality, age, language, place of residence, membership in groups, and so on. Generally,

Nous avons actuellement en notre possession une liste de 81 prix littéraires, dont 69 seulement ont pu être recensés. Il existe donc 12 prix pour lesquels il a été impossible de recueillir les données nécessaires pour les inclure dans cette publication. Ces derniers sont aujourd'hui tous disparus, sauf le Prix Michèle Lenormand et l'Edmonton Journal Literary Awards Competition. Voici la liste de ces 12 prix:

La langue des prix

Les 69 prix littéraires recensés s'adressent soit à des anglophones, soit à des francophones, soit aux deux à la fois.

Pour déterminer la langue des prix, nous nous sommes arrêtés à la règle suivante: un prix est bilingue quand, dans ses dernières années tout au moins, le nombre des lauréats de la langue dominante ne dépasse pas 80 % de l'ensemble. Le tableau 1 distribue les prix quant à la langue. On notera la stabilité des prix français dont 94 % subsistent depuis leur création, en comparaison de 82 % pour les prix bilingues et de 73 % pour les prix anglais.

Les prix actuels

Les premiers prix littéraires sont apparus en 1923. Parmi ceux qui existent encore à l'heure actuelle, le plus ancien est La Médaille Lorne Pierce de La Société royale du Canada, qui date de 1926. On peut se faire une idée de la date d'apparition des 55 prix actuels en consultant le tableau 2.

Le tableau 3 distribue les prix actuels selon les genres littéraires; et le tableau 4, selon la provenance. Nous regarderons de plus près ces distributions au moment où nous examinerons la valeur monétaire des prix.

Les concours imposent certaines restrictions quant à l'éligibilité des candidats. Ces restrictions peuvent toucher la nationalité, l'âge, la langue, le lieu de résidence, l'appartenance à certains groupes, etc. Le plus souvent les candidates must be Canadian citizens or landed immigrants. The distribution of existing awards in accordance with the other categories listed is shown in Table 5, which gives a breakdown of international, national, provincial, regional and municipal prizes, as well as those restricted to particular groups. These groups are the Association des Poètes canadiens-français (No. 46)¹ and young people under 21 (No. 37 and No. 65).¹ The 15 prizes restricted to residents of a particular province can be broken down as follows:

	Prize number ¹
Newfoundland	9
Quebec	14, 17, 22
Ontario	29, 55
Manitoba	20, 30
Saskatchewan	61
Alberta	23, 39, 51, 60, 66
British Columbia	18

Cash Value of Awards

Eighty-five per cent of the existing prizes are cash awards. More specifically, 100% of the French prizes, 77% of the English prizes and 89% of the bilingual prizes are of this type.

The largest prizes, of $5,000 or more, are the following:

No.	Existing prizes	Total value $	Maximum awarded to an individual $
12	The Molson Prizes (Bilingual)	45,000	15,000
53	Chalmer Award (English)	15,000	5,000
3	The Governor General's Award (Bilingual)	15,000	2,500
16	The Prix David (French)	5,000	5,000
69	The Canada Council Translation Prize (Bilingual)	5,000	2,500
Defunct prizes
1	The Concours littéraires du Québec (Quebec Literary Competition) (Bilingual)	20,000	2,500
32	Maclean's Magazine Novel Award (English)	5,000	5,000

candidats doivent être citoyens canadiens ou immigrants reçus. D'autre part, si on distribue les prix actuels selon les autres catégories énumérées, on obtient le tableau 5, qui distingue les prix internationaux, nationaux, provinciaux, régionaux ou municipaux, ainsi que ceux qui sont restreints à certains groupes. Ces groupes sont l'Association des Poètes canadiens-français (n° 46)¹ et les jeunes de moins de 21 ans (n° 37, n° 65)¹. Quant aux 15 prix restreints aux habitants d'une seule province, ils se distribuent comme suit:

	Numéro des prix ¹
Terre-Neuve	9
Québec	14, 17, 22
Ontario	29, 55
Manitoba	20, 30
Saskatchewan	61
Alberta	23, 39, 51, 60, 66
Colombie-Britannique	18

Valeur monétaire des prix

Quatre-vingt-cinq pourcent des prix actuels sont des prix en argent. Plus précisément, 100 % des prix français, 77 % des prix anglais et 89 % des prix bilingues sont de cette nature.

Du point de vue monétaire, les prix les plus importants, ceux dont la valeur est d'au moins $5,000, sont les suivants:

N°	Prix actuels	Valeur totale $	Montant maximum attribué à un individu $
12	Le Prix Molson (Bilingue)	45,000	15,000
53	Chalmer Award (Anglais)	15,000	5,000
3	Le Prix du Gouverneur Général (Bilingue)	15,000	2,500
16	Le Prix David (Français)	5,000	5,000
69	Le Prix de Traduction du Conseil des Arts (Bilingue)	5,000	2,500
Prix disparus
1	Les Concours littéraires du Québec (Bilingue)	20,000	2,500
32	Maclean's Magazine Novel Award (Anglais)	5,000	5,000

The largest award is therefore the Molson Prizes, which was been in existence since 1963.

Table 6 gives a comprehensive view of the cash value of present and past prizes. Of course, all these prizes did not exist at the same time: at no time was a grand total of $126,374 given out. The current total value of the awards is $93,449, of which 37% is for English writers, 20% for French writers and 43% for authors writing in either language.

Table 7 gives a breakdown of the cash value of the prizes by category of sponsor. It shows that the most important sources are the provinces (29.5%), the federal government (25.7%) and the books and periodicals industry (8.1%).

Table 8 gives a breakdown of the cash value of current prizes by literary genres. On the whole, the groups entitled All categories (57%) and Drama (21%) receive most of the awards. This situation changes, however, if we examine the awards by language. Among bilingual awards, the accent is on All categories (80%) and Translation (13%). On the English side, Drama far exceeds the other groups (55%). On the French side, the All categories group (79%) and Novels and short stories (17%) are predominant.

Le prix le plus élevé est donc le Prix Molson qui est en existence depuis 1963.

Le tableau 6 offre une vue d'ensemble de la valeur monétaire des prix présents et passés. On comprend que tous ces prix n'ont pas existé simultanément: à aucun moment, un grand total de $126,374 n'a été distribué. Aujourd'hui, la somme totale des prix est de $93,449 dont 37 % est destiné aux écrivains anglophones; 20 % aux écrivains francophones; et 43 % aux auteurs de l'une et l'autre langue.

Le tableau 7 distingue la valeur monétaire des prix actuels selon la provenance. Il révèle que les sources les plus importantes sont les provinces (29.5 %), l'État fédéral (25.7 %), et l'industrie du livre et des périodiques (8.1 %).

Le tableau 8 distribue la valeur monétaire des prix actuels selon les divers genres littéraires. Dans l'ensemble, les groupes Toutes catégories (57 %) et Théâtre (21 %) sont les mieux dotés. Si on examine la langue, cependant, les points forts se déplacent. Car, du côté bilingue, l'accent est mis sur les groupes Toutes catégories (80 %) et Traduction (13 %). Du côté anglais, le Théâtre prend nettement la vedette (55 %). Et, du côté français, ce sont les secteurs Toutes catégories (79 %) et Romans et nouvelles (17 %) qui dominent.

1. Quebec Literary Competition -- Les concours littéraires du Québec

Bilingual – Bilingue ($20,000)

1923 - 1970

M. Villeneuve
Ministère des Affaires culturelles
Hôtel du Gouvernement
Québec 4, Québec.
(418) 643-2104

The Quebec Literary Competition was founded and sponsored by the Province of Quebec, with two objectives; stimulating literature and scientific research, and helping writers and researchers publish their work. The categories, the amounts awarded and the number of winners varied. Latterly, a total of $20,000 was distributed equally among eight categories. Any Canadian citizen could submit entries in French, but authors of works in English had to have been living in Quebec for at least five years.

Institués par la Province de Québec, les Concours littéraires avaient deux buts: promouvoir les lettres et la recherche scientifique; aider les auteurs à publier leurs oeuvres. Les catégories, la valeur des prix et le nombre des lauréats ont varié. En dernier, $20,000 étaient distribués à raison de $2,500 par catégorie. Tout citoyen canadien pouvait soumettre une oeuvre écrite en français, mais les auteurs d'expression anglaise devaient avoir résidé au Québec depuis cinq ans.

The Royal Society of Canada
La Société royale du Canada

Ottawa, Ontario.
K1A 0N4
(613) 992-3468

Since 1926, The Royal Society of Canada has awarded a gold medal for some achievement in the field of imaginative or critical literature in English or French. Literary criticism dealing with Canadian subjects receives prior consideration over works lacking a Canadian theme. The medal was named for Dr. Lorne Pierce of Ryerson Press, who was for many years active in the promotion of Canadian literature. Since 1966, a sum of $1,000 accompanies the gold medal. The award is presented biennially.

Depuis 1926, la Société royale du Canada décerne une médaille d'or, qui commémore l'oeuvre de l'éditeur Lorne Pierce de la maison Ryerson Press, grand promoteur de la littérature canadienne. Ce prix est décerné pour souligner une contribution importante dans le domaine de la littérature d'imagination ou de la critique en français ou en anglais. Bien que tous les genres littéraires soient admis, préférence est donnée aux ouvrages de critique littéraire portant sur des oeuvres canadiennes. La médaille, accompagnée d'une somme de $1,000 depuis 1966, est maintenant décernée tous les deux ans.

The Governor General's Literary Awards were instituted in 1936 by the Canadian Authors' Association, which assumed the expense and administered the awards for the first seven years. In 1944, the Canadian Authors' Association created the Governor General's Awards Board which, under the Association's direction, supervised the selection and briefing of judges. By 1954, the Board had become an autonomous, self-perpetuating body of five members, nominated by the chairman and approved by the Governor General. Until this time, English language writers only were eligible, but in 1959, when the Canada Council assumed responsibility for the awards, a French-language section was added. There have always been three basic categories: fiction, non-fiction and, poetry and drama. Between 1942 and 1958, two awards were given in the non-fiction category, and between 1949 and 1958 there was also a juvenile book award. Since 1959 two awards, one English and one French, have been given in each of the three basic categories. Initially, the winners received a medal. After the Canada Council took over in 1959, the winners received $1,000 as well. Later, the medal was changed to a specially bound copy of the author's winning book, and in 1965 the cash prize was increased to $2,500.

Le Prix du Gouverneur général fut fondé en 1936 par The Canadian Authors' Association, qui en garda la direction jusqu'en 1944. À ce moment, un conseil d'administration fut créé pour administrer le prix sous l'autorité de l'Association. En 1954, le conseil d'administration devint autonome, ses membres étant nommés par le président avec l'approbation du Gouverneur général. Jusque là, le prix ne s'adressait qu'aux auteurs de langue anglaise. En 1959, il passa sous la juridiction du Conseil des Arts du Canada, qui lui adjoignit une section de langue française. Le Prix a toujours comporté trois catégories: poésie et théâtre; romans et nouvelles; autres oeuvres littéraires. Cependant, de 1942 à 1958, on subdivisa la dernière catégorie en littérature et recherche; et de 1949 à 1958, on ajouta une catégorie de livres pour la jeunesse. Depuis 1959 on en est revenu aux trois catégories initiales. Au début, les lauréats recevaient une médaille, mais celle-ci fut remplacée plus tard par un exemplaire spécialement relié de l'oeuvre primée. Depuis l'entrée en scène du Conseil des Arts en 1959, une somme de $1,000 (portée à $2,500 en 1965) est aussi attribuée aux lauréats.

Le Prix Duvernay was established in 1944 by La Société Saint-Jean-Baptiste de Montréal. It is named for the Society's founder, Ludger Crevier Duvernay (1799-1852). An award of $1,000 is presented annually to a French Canadian author for his contribution to the life of French Canada. The prize recognizes outstanding merit in the literary and intellectual world, rather than a single piece of writing.

In 1946, the Alberta Chapter of the I.O.D.E. established an annual book contest for Alberta residents. The amount of money offered varied from year to year, although first prize was generally about $200. Likewise, there was some variation in the type of work eligible – usually historical or straight fiction, often dealing with Western Canada. After 1956, the book award was discontinued, but $100 was presented for a play in 1957.

Ce prix créé en 1946 par l'Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, Alberta Chapter (environ $200) était réservé aux écrivains de l'Alberta. Malgré certaines variations, le sujet a presque toujours été l'histoire, le roman et la nouvelle – qui souvent devaient porter sur l'Ouest canadien. Bien que discontinué en 1956, on attribua en 1957 la somme de $100 pour une pièce de théâtre.

Since 1951, gold medals have been presented to Canadians who, over a period of years, have made distinguished contributions to Canada in the fields of letters, music, and painting and the related arts. The award was granted in each field every year until 1961. Since then, one medal in one field has been presented annually on a rotating basis, i.e., each field comes up for award every third year. It is awarded in conjunction with the Scholarship Night of the Banff School of Fine Arts. Listed below are winners in the letters category.

À partir de 1951, trois médailles d'or furent décernées par l'Université de l'Alberta pour une contribution soutenue dans le domaine des lettres, de la musique et des arts plastiques. Depuis 1961, une seule médaille par année est attribuée tour à tour dans chacun de ces domaines. Le lauréat doit être citoyen canadien et résider au Canada. Le prix est administré par le Président de l'Université et proclamé lors de la collation des grades de The Banff School of Fine Arts. Nous ne rapportons ici que les lauréats en littérature.

The University of Western Ontario
London 72, Ontario.
(519) 679-3616

These medals have been awarded annually since 1951 for the best works submitted to the competition in four categories: single poem, short story, general article and scholarly article (first presented in 1953). The award was established to complement the Governor General's Literary Awards by granting recognition to periodical publications. To be eligible, work must have been written by a Canadian citizen or resident, and must have been published in Canada. Since 1967, each medal has been accompanied by $100. A special medal was posthumously awarded to poet Anne Wilkinson (1910-1961) in 1962.

La Médaille du Président de l'Université de Western Ontario a été créée en 1951 pour compléter le Prix du Gouverneur général du côté revues et journaux. Elle est décernée dans quatre catégories: poésie, nouvelles, articles d'intérêt général et depuis 1953, articles scientifiques. Pour être primée, l'oeuvre doit avoir été publiée au Canada et avoir été écrite par un canadien ou tout au moins par un auteur demeurant au Canada. Depuis 1967, une somme de $100 est attribuée à tous les lauréats. De plus, en 1962, une médaille spéciale a été décernée, à titre posthume, au poète Anne Wilkinson (1910-1961).

8. Chauveau Medal – La Médaille Chauveau

Ottawa, Ontario.
K1A 0N4
(613) 992-3468

Since 1952, the Royal Society of Canada has awarded a silver medal, and since 1966 the sum of $1,000 in honour of Pierre Chauveau, a nineteenth century Quebec statesman and writer. The award is presented for a distinguished contribution to the humanities, other than Canadian history and Canadian literature. Since 1966 it has been awarded every second year.

Depuis 1952 une médaille d'argent est offerte par la Société royale du Canada en mémoire de Pierre Chauveau, écrivain et homme d'état québécois du XIXe siècle. Elle est décernée pour une oeuvre qui porte sur les humanités, mais excluant l'histoire du Canada et la littérature canadienne. Depuis 1966, elle s'accompagne d'une somme de $1,000 et est attribuée à tous les deux ans.

9. Government of Newfoundland and Labrador Arts and Letters Competition

English – Anglais ($750) 1952 -

Secretary
Arts and Letters Competitions
Arts and Culture Centre
P.O. Box 1854
St. John's Newfoundland.

Since 1952, the Government of Newfoundland and Labrador has held an annual arts and letters competition, awarding prizes for work in a number of fields. Currently, the letters section of the contest offers three prizes ($250, $100 and $50) for individual, original work in each of the following categories: Newfoundland history, short story, poem, and dramatized script. A gold medal may be awarded for outstanding achievement in any category. All Newfoundland and Labrador residents may submit one entry in each category, although the previous year's first prize winner cannot enter that category the next year.

Du concours annuel des arts et des lettres de la Province de Terre-Neuve, nous ne rapportons ici que ce qui regarde la section littérature. Trois prix ($250, $100 et $50) sont attribués chaque année depuis 1952 pour une oeuvre écrite en anglais dans chacune des quatre catégories suivantes: histoire de Terre-Neuve, nouvelles, poésie et théâtre. Il arrive aussi qu'une médaille d'or soit décernée exceptionnellement pour une oeuvre de très grand mérite. Tout habitant de la province peut soumettre sa candidature simultanément dans toutes les catégories, mais le gagnant d'un premier prix n'est pas éligible dans la même catégorie, l'année suivante.

Cercle du livre de France

H2N 1M6
(514) 384-8760

This $1,000 prize was created in 1967 by the publishers, Le Cercle du livre de France, in collaboration with Molson Breweries, as a result of difficulties in determining the winner of Le Prix du Cercle du livre de France. It was decided that the latter would be awarded for a more traditional work, and a new prize would be created for the entries of an avant-garde nature. All manuscripts submitted for Le Prix du Cercle du livre de France are eligible for Le Prix Jean-Béraud - Molson. Winning manuscripts are published by Le Cercle du livre de France.

Ce prix ($1,000) fut institué en mémoire de l'écrivain canadien Jean Béraud par la maison d'édition Le Cercle du livre de France en collaboration avec La Brasserie Molson, donatrice du prix. Il fut créé, en 1967, pour résoudre une difficulté qui se présentait lors de l'attribution du Prix du Cercle du livre de France. En effet, il fut décidé de réserver ce dernier à des œuvres plus traditionnelles et de créer un nouveau prix pour les œuvres d'avant-garde. Tout manuscrit soumis pour le premier prix est éligible pour le second. Le lauréat voit son manuscrit publié par Le Cercle du livre de France.

The Edmonton Branch of the Canadian Authors' Association has sponsored the Alberta Poetry Contest since 1930. At first, the competition was open only to Alberta residents, but in 1940, entries were received from every province. Currently, first, second and third prizes of $25, $15 and $10 respectively are presented in each of four classes: sonnet, short poem, humorous verse and poem by a juvenile 16 years and under. Winners of the Alberta Scouten Memorial Award, the Georgia May Cook Sonnet Award and the Jessie Drummond Boyd Prize receive books. Entries must be the author's original, unpublished work and may not exceed 42 lines. In addition, $25 is offered for the best poem of more than 42 but less than 300 lines. Any theme or form may be used. All residents of Canada may submit poems in English. Winning entries are published in the Alberta Poetry Yearbook.

L'Alberta Poetry Contest fut fondé par The Canadian Authors' Association, (Edmonton Branch) en 1930. D'abord réservé aux albertains, ce concours de poésie anglaise fut étendu à tous les habitants du Canada en 1940. Des prix de $25, $15 et $10 sont décernés dans quatre catégories: sonnets, courts poèmes, poèmes humoristiques, et poèmes écrits par les jeunes de 16 ans et moins. De plus, les lauréats de l'Alberta Scouten Memorial Award, le Georgia May Cook Sonnet Award et le Jessie Drummond Boyd Prize reçoivent des livres. Dans tous ces cas, les poèmes doivent être inédits et ne pas excéder quarante-deux vers. En outre un prix de $25 est attribué au meilleur poème de quarante-trois à trois cents vers. Les oeuvres primées sont publiées dans l'Alberta Poetry Yearbook.

For ten years after its founding in 1936 by the Canadian Authors' Association, the Canadian Poetry Magazine offered prizes of $15, $10 and $5 for the best poems in each issue. In 1938, seven cash awards per issue were made. In 1946, the Donald G. French Award for Poetry ($25) was instituted under the auspices of the magazine. It is not known when this award ceased to be offered. Some other prizes were given just once. The Seranus Memorial prize of $25 was presented in 1937, the Tweedsmuir Award (a medal from the Governor General) was given in 1938 and the Centennial Prize of $25 was awarded in 1967.

De 1936 à 1946, le Canadian Poetry Magazine (fondé par The Canadian Authors' Association) offrit trois prix de poésie ($25, $10 et $5) pour les meilleurs poèmes de chacune des livraisons de la revue. (En 1938, par exception, on décerna sept prix.) À partir de 1946, un prix annuel de $25 fut institué sous le nom de Donald G. French Award for Poetry. Nous n'avons pas pu obtenir la liste de ses lauréats et nous ignorons quand il a cessé d'exister. De plus, trois prix ne furent décernés qu'une fois: The Seranus Memorial Prize ($25) en 1937; The Tweedsmuir Award (une médaille du gouverneur général) en 1938; et The Centennial Prize ($25) en 1967.

English -- Anglais ($275) 1944 - 1955

The O'Leary Newfoundland Poetry Awards were instituted in 1944 to foster Newfoundland literature, particularly in the field of poetry. All Newfoundlanders could submit original, unpublished poems in English. First prize was $100, with $25 for each honorable mention.

Ce prix de poésie fut créé par la firme F.M. O'Leary Limited à la suggestion de Michael Harrington, responsable d'un programme de radio consacré aux affaires de Terre-Neuve. Les poèmes soumis devaient être inédits; et les auteurs, originaires de Terre-Neuve. Le premier prix était de $100 et une somme de $25 accompagnait chaque mention honorable.

The Dominion Drama Festival, now known as Theatre Canada, was inaugurated in 1932 and, except for the war years, has been an annual event. In 1970, the Festival became non-competitive. Although most awards were given for achievement in dramatic fields other than writing, there were several prizes intended specifically for playwrights. From 1934 to 1959, the Festival Committee Prize of $100 was awarded to the author of the best play written by a person domiciled in Canada and presented at any of the regional festivals. This prize was discontinued in 1960 and replaced by the Massey Medal which was given to the best Canadian playwright in the final Festival. The medal was donated by the governors of the Festival to honour The Right Honourable Vincent Massey, the Festival's first chairman and later its honorary president. In 1960, special awards were made by the Canada Council to encourage the writing and production of full-length Canadian plays. The playwright was awarded $100, and an additional $500 if his play should win the Final Festival Trophy. These awards were made only in 1960. The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, in 1967 and 1968, donated a $1,000 prize, known as the Howard Caine Memorial Award, to be given to the author of the best new Canadian play.

Le Festival d'art dramatique, aujourd'hui Théâtre Canada, ne désigne pas un prix littéraire, mais un festival d'art dramatique. Sauf durant la guerre (1940-1947), ce festival a eu lieu tous les ans depuis 1933. Un certain nombre de prix lui sont associés. Nous groupons ici ceux qui ont un caractère proprement littéraire – par opposition aux prix décernés aux acteurs, réalisateurs, metteurs en scène, etc. Le Prix du Comité du festival ($100) fut attribué, de 1934 à 1959, à l'auteur de la meilleure pièce présentée aux festivals régionaux. Pour être élu, l'auteur devait habiter au Canada. En 1960 seulement, le Conseil des Arts du Canada offrit huit prix de $100 aux auteurs des meilleures pièces de chacune des huit régions du festival. De plus, l'auteur qui remporta le Trophée du Festival, cette année-là, reçut une somme supplémentaire de $500. De 1960 à 1969, le prix du festival fut la Médaille Vincent Massey, ainsi nommée en honneur du Gouverneur général, premier président du festival. En outre, en 1967 et 1968, le Prix Howard Caine ($1,000) de l'Association canadienne des radio-diffuseurs fut décerné au meilleur auteur canadien d'une nouvelle pièce.

This annual award for children's books is presented by the Canadian Association of Children's Librarians, but only when there is an entry of sufficient merit. The first medal was won in 1947. At first the awards were made for works in English only, but in 1954, a separate award for French-language works was established. Entries must be written by Canadians living in Canada and must be published in Canada. The medal, designed after a bas-relief from the Louis Hébert Memorial in Quebec City, shows Canada's first Canadian mother, Marie Rollet Hébert, reading to her children.

Depuis 1947 l'Association canadienne des bibliothécaires pour enfants décerne une médaille à l'auteur du meilleur livre pour la jeunesse écrit en anglais. À partir de 1954, une seconde médaille fut attribuée aux auteurs d'expression française. Ces médailles reproduisent un bas-relief du monument Louis Hébert, à Québec, bas-relief qui représente la première mère canadienne, Marie Rollet Hébert, faisant la lecture à ses enfants. Les candidats doivent résider au Canada et l'oeuvre doit être publiée au Canada.

Claude Lee Real Estate Award

Edmonton Press Club Awards

Defunct prizes – Prix disparus

J.V. McAree Memorial Award

Sherman Fairchild Aviation Writing Award

Le Prix de l'Union canadienne des journalistes de langue française

Of the 20 prizes included here, two are no longer in existence: No. 73. Bowater Award for Journalism and No. 84. Travel Writing Award. Both were restricted to Anglophone journalists.

Des 20 prix recensés, 2 sont aujourd'hui disparus: n° 73. Bowater award for Journalism, et n° 84. Travel Writing Award. Tous deux étaient destinés aux journalistes anglophones.

Existing Prizes

We applied the same rule regarding language that we used for the literary awards. Table 9 gives a breakdown by language of the 18 existing prizes and shows the cash value of 15 of them.

Prix actuels

En ce qui a trait à la langue, nous avons suivi la même règle que pour les prix littéraires. Le tableau 9 distribue les 18 prix qui existent selon la langue et indique la valeur monétaire de 15 d'entre eux.

The oldest award (No. 65. Media Club of Canada Memorial Award) was established in 1936. Generally speaking, prizes in the field of journalism are a recent phenomenon: most of the current prizes came into existence in the last 20 years.

Le prix le plus ancien (n° 65. Media Club of Canada Memorial Awards) fut créé en 1936. En général, les prix de journalisme sont un phénomène récent: la plupart des prix actuels datent des 20 dernières années.

1941 - 50	1	1	$ 4,500
1951 - 60	5	5	$ 4,800
1961 - 70	7	3	$ 2,750
1971 -	4	3	$ 4,700
Total	18	13	$17,350

The largest awards ($2,000 and over) are as follows (the maximum awarded to an individual is given in brackets):

Existing Prizes

No. 71. National Newspaper Awards	$4,500	($500)
No. 83. National Business Writing Awards	$2,700	($500)

Defunct Prizes

No. 73. Bowater Award for Journalism	$3,000	($1,000)
--------------------------------------	---------	-----------

Tables 10, 11 and 12 give a breakdown of the cash value of existing prizes by: type of publication, the source of the prizes and some conditions of eligibility. We used four types of publication: the general group, business, sports and travel, and miscellaneous. There are also four sources of the prizes: journalism clubs, associations, business firms, and other sources, including different donors acting jointly (an association and a business firm, for example). The conditions of eligibility included four categories: national prizes, for journalists who published anywhere in Canada; provincial prizes, for articles published in a particular province (this applies to British Columbia alone); regional or municipal prizes, for articles published in a certain region (namely southwestern Ontario) or in a city (namely Toronto). There is also a special group, with only one prize (No. 82. Kenneth R. Wilson Memorial Awards), which is restricted to the regular members of the editorial staffs of the periodicals which belong to Canadian Business Press.

Les mieux dotés ($2,000 et plus) sont les suivants (Entre parenthèses: le montant le plus élevé attribué au même individu):

Prix actuels

Nº 71. National Newspaper Awards	$4,500	($500)
Nº 83. National Business Writing Awards	$2,700	($500)

Prix disparus

Nº 73. Bowater Award for Journalism	$3,000	($1,000)
-------------------------------------	---------	-----------

Les tableaux 10, 11 et 12 distribuent la valeur monétaire des prix existant actuellement selon trois dimensions: le genre de publication, la source d'où proviennent les prix et certaines conditions d'éligibilité. Nous avons distingué quatre genres de publication: le groupe toutes catégories, affaires, sports et voyages, et le groupe divers. Il y a de même quatre sources d'où proviennent les prix: cercles de journalistes, associations, maisons d'affaires et les autres sources, qui incluent les donateurs disparates agissant conjointement (e.g., une association et une maison d'affaires). Quant aux conditions d'éligibilité, elles comportent quatre catégories: la catégorie des prix nationaux, destinés aux journalistes qui ont publié n'importe où au Canada; la catégorie des prix provinciaux, restreints aux articles publiés dans une province en particulier (une seule province est ici visée: la Colombie-Britannique); la catégorie des prix régionaux ou municipaux, à l'intention des articles publiés dans une région (en réalité: le sud-ouest de l'Ontario) ou dans une ville (en réalité: Toronto); enfin la catégorie Groupe spécial, qui comprend un seul prix (nº 82. Kenneth R. Wilson Memorial Awards), restreint aux membres réguliers des équipes de rédaction des périodiques qui font partie de la Canadian Business Press.

70. Media Club of Canada Memorial Awards

Bilingual – Bilingue (S600) 1935-
 Mrs. Jean MacLellan
 Media Club of Canada
 63 Sparks
 Ottawa, Ontario.
 (613) 236-6146

These awards, known until 1973 as the Canadian Women's Press Club Memorial Awards, were established in 1935. At that time, the winner received a gold medal and $25 for a piece of writing relating to the specific category which had been chosen for that year. Over the years the medal was changed, monetary awards increased, and categories, which expanded to permit more than one winner, varied from one presentation to the next. In particular, from 1954 to 1961, in conjunction with the Canadian Women's Press Club, Elizabeth Arden presented awards for articles on beauty and fashion styling. First prize was $300; second, $200. Currently, there are five categories in which prizes are offered. The top prize in each is $100 and a sterling silver medal. Second place winners receive $50, and a certificate; those accorded honorable mention, a certificate. The competition was open to Canadian women only until 1973 when the rules were changed to allow men to enter.

Créé en 1935, ce prix du Media Club of Canada fut connu jusqu'en 1973 sous le nom de Canadian Women's Press Club Memorial Awards. Il fut d'abord réservé aux femmes journalistes, mais il a été étendu aux hommes en 1973. Au début, le prix (une médaille d'or et une somme de $25) était destiné à une catégorie d'articles qui variait d'année en année. Par la suite, la médaille a changé, les sommes ont variées, et les catégories se sont multipliées. De 1954 à 1961, en particulier, deux prix de $300 et $200 furent offerts par Elizabeth Arden pour des articles portant sur la beauté et la mode féminine. À l'heure actuelle, le prix comporte cinq catégories. Dans chacune d'elles, le premier lauréat reçoit une médaille d'argent et une somme de $100; le second, $50 et un certificat, et le troisième un certificat d'honneur.

72. Western Ontario Newspaper Awards

English – Anglais (S900) 1954-
 Kitchener-Waterloo Press Club
 69 King Street West
 Kitchener, Ontario.

Established in 1954, these annual awards are open to reporters and photographers on 19 daily newspapers in western Ontario. Currently, they are sponsored by the Kitchener-Waterloo Press Club in conjunction with B.F. Goodrich Canada Limited and the Ford Motor Company of Canada, although Dow Breweries and Carling Breweries have been sponsors in the past. Over the years, the number of categories in which awards are presented has grown to thirteen. The Joan May Memorial Trophy for Columnists, which is sponsored by the London City Press Club, was first awarded in 1966. First prize in each category is $100 and a trophy. Omitted here are three prizes for photography.

Ces prix ont été créés en 1954 à l'intention des reporters et des photographes de 19 quotidiens du sud-ouest de l'Ontario. Bien que les Brasseries Dow et Carling y aient contribué dans le passé, ils sont aujourd'hui offerts par le Kitchener-Waterloo Press Club, B.F. Goodrich Canada et Ford Motor Company of Canada. De plus le Joan May Memorial Trophy est offert aux auteurs de chroniques par le London City Press Club depuis 1966. Un trophée et une somme de $100 sont attribués dans chacune des treize catégories. Nous omettons ici les trois catégories de photographies.

73. Bowater Award for Journalism

English – Anglais

($3,000)

1955-1962

From 1955 to 1962, the Bowater Award was given to Canadian journalists for a series of editorials or feature articles on a single theme which appeared in Canadian newspapers and ran for at least a week. The series must have been in the public interest insofar as it was likely to have a beneficial influence on the issue in question. Initially, awards were presented for works in two categories: social-political-cultural and economics-business. In 1959, a third category, Commonwealth and International Affairs, was added. The winner in each category received $1,000. Submissions were accepted from Canadian newspaper staff members resident in Canada or working as foreign correspondents. The award was under the custodianship of the Parliamentary Press Gallery in Ottawa.

Ce prix, offert par la Bowater Corporation et administré par la Galerie de la presse du Parlement d'Ottawa, fut décerné pendant huit ans, de 1955 à 1962, pour une série d'articles sur un même thème, de nature à influencer l'opinion et ayant paru dans un journal canadien pendant au moins une semaine. Les auteurs devaient être des canadiens, résidant au Canada ou correspondants à l'étranger. Initialement, le prix comportait deux catégories: une sur les choses politiques, sociales et culturelles; et l'autre sur l'économie et les affaires. En 1959, on ajouta une troisième catégorie ayant pour objet le Commonwealth et les affaires internationales. Chaque lauréat recevait une somme de $1,000.

81. Dominion Textile Canadian Community Newspapers Association Journalism Awards

English -- Anglais ($1,000) 1971-

Mr. Michel Dufour
Public Relations Department
Dominion Textile Limited
1950 Sherbrooke West
Montreal, Quebec.
H2H 1E7

On an experimental basis in 1971, Dominion Textile Limited instituted these awards for creative journalism by individuals writing for Canadian Community newspapers. That year, prizes were presented for submissions in six categories, but the number was subsequently reduced to two: Columns and "Our Hometown Paper". Each winner receives $400 and a gold medal. In the case of the Hometown Paper Award, the prize goes to a writer who best describes the function of the local paper. The publisher whose subscriber wins this award receives a gold medal himself and the sum of $200. The awards are sponsored and provided by Dominion Textile, but administered and presented at its annual convention by the Canadian Community Newspapers Association.

En 1971, la société Dominion Textile fonda, à titre expérimental, un prix à l'intention des collaborateurs des journaux locaux, membres de la Canadian Community Newspapers Association. Au début, le prix comporta plusieurs catégories, mais celles-ci sont aujourd'hui réduites à deux. Le lauréat de la catégorie "Chroniques" reçoit une médaille d'or et une somme de $400. Dans la catégorie "Notre journal", un prix de même nature est décerné à un abonné, auteur du meilleur essai sur le rôle du journal local. Le directeur du journal concerné, reçoit lui aussi une médaille d'or et une somme de $200. Les prix sont proclamés à la réunion annuelle de l'Association.

(S250)

An annual award for the best newspaper travel article was established in 1959 by the magazine Canadian Journalist and Press Photographer (later Toronto Press Journal) and the British Columbia Government. Entries could be submitted by any Canadian journalist whose travel story had been published in a Canadian newspaper. The prize was $250 and an all-expense paid trip for two to British Columbia, or to Quebec, if the winner was a B.C. resident. This award has been discontinued and only the names of winners listed here are available.

De 1959 à 1969, ce prix national fut décerné conjointement par la Province de Colombie-Britannique et par la revue Canadian Journalist and Press Photographer (qui devint par la suite The Toronto Press Journal). Il avait pour objet le meilleur écrit portant sur les voyages. L'article, d'un journaliste canadien, devait paraître dans un journal canadien. Le prix consistait en une somme de $250 et un voyage pour deux personnes soit en Colombie-Britannique, soit au Québec (si le lauréat était un habitant de la Colombie-Britannique).
